Table of Contents

1. #0-Personality Comparisons + Intro
2. #0.5: Renewed Personality Comparisons
3. #1: Who you met first + How
4. #2:Who you usually chill with
5. #3: Who developed a crush on you
6. Letter from the Author...
7. #4: The Filler
8. #5: Their gift to you!
9. #6: Outdoors Activities
10. #7: "You did what?!"
11. #8: America's Party
12. A letter concerning #0.
13. #9:Happy Holidays💕
14. #10: School☆
15. Smol Filler...
16. Another Letter.

#0-Personality Comparisons + Intro

The first part of this series will be which Countryhuman each zodiac has been assigned to. I've also put in the effort to add in two personality traits that I thought suited the specified Countryhuman well. I apologize if you don't like the Countryhuman that had been assigned to you, and hope you can understand. There is more information below.

♈ Aries: Australia AU [Adventurous/Daredevil]

♉ Taurus: America 🇺🇸 [Persistent/Self-Indulgent]

♊ Gemini: Philippines PH [Adaptable/inconsistent]

♋ Cancer: Canada CA [Intuitive/Moody]

♌ Leo: Great Britain 🇬🇧 [Generous/Bossy]

♍ Virgo: Germany 🇩🇪 [Intelligent/Harsh]

♎ Libra: Japan 🇯🇵 [Easygoing/Changeable]

♏ Scorpio: Russia 🇷🇺 [Powerful/Secretive]

♐ Sagittarius: South Korea 🇰🇷 [Optimistic/Careless]

♑ Capricorn: Finland FI [Practical/Pessimistic]

♒ Aquarius: China 🇨🇳 [Intellectual/Detached]

♓ Pisces: Antarctica AQ [Selfless/Idealist]

---

In this story I will be writing scenarios and more zodiac-Countryhuman comparisons. There might be zodiac x Countryhuman in the future, or reader inserts, but I'm not so sure. I will not be doing any type of erotic writing (lemons, limes) under any circumstances.

I am no longer taking requests.

I hope you all will like my book.

#0.5: Renewed Personality Comparisons

A few of these are very dissimilar compared to the ones from before. Some of these are the same, as well. I just couldn't find any other Countryhuman that's best for said zodiac! This time I took into consideration of the other traits that come with the zodiacs.

Aries
Norway//sporty, competitive, friendly, charming
I was very on edge about choosing Norway for the Aries sign. Now, the Aries zodiac is known to be somewhat quick tempered— and that's what Norway is not. I decided that I'd leave that negative trait out, though. With that out of the way, it felt right to give the Aries sign Norway.

Taurus
Italy//indulgent, craves comfort, dangerous when provoked, observant, childish
This is what I'm on edge about. While I was researching Italy, I found that they are childish, but... that was it, haha. So! I searched up some attributes of the actual country Italy, and found how cozy the country is! It appears as if you coult make yourself at home as soon as you step foot into the country. Italy can be quite dangerous, though. Don't be fooled!

Gemini
Vietnam//persuasive, balanced, inconsistent, versatile
I didn't know much about Vietnam. It was interesting to hear how much he relates to Gemini! Vietnam's is generally a balanced country, while also being... inconsistent? It's a strange combination that contrasts a lot, but hey. Gemini tends to work on many things, making them a versatile zodiac. Gemini signs also rely heavily on communication. The split between north Vietnam and south Vietnam was brought to mind when I found that out. With communication, they reunited into one.

Cancer
Canada//introverted, emotional, subtle, clingy
I couldn't find a better country for the Cancer sign. Canada just seems so perfect for it! I have learned though, that Canada tends to worry, and is somewhat attached to his brother, America. We all know the countryhuman Canada is known for apologizing a lot. I feel bad for the poor boy. Cancers are usually far more protective and attached to people they see as family/are their family.

Leo
America//interfering, generous, dogmatic, enthusiastic
Although Leo's tend to take immediate action over certain situations, that doesn't stop them from being Generous and generally attempt to be helpful. America's dogmatic attitude is something that's a bit controversial in my opinion; but I'd like to make the headcanon that he is stubborn when it comes to rules. Despite this he strives for others to follow his own...

Virgo
Germany//meticulous, harsh, reliable, worrier
Germany is probably one of my favorite zodiacs. He's quite meticulous— meaning he puts effort and detail into all of his work. He's also pretty harsh though. Still, his perspective towards helping the planet rehabilitate itself and stop a the rising crisis of global warming makes me smile. The perseverance is seen within the Virgo sign and Germany are nearly identical.

Libra
France//charming, romantic, easily influenced, self indulgent
Romance, beauty, and a love for all forms of art. Libra is all about balance and tranquility, which is what France tends to strive for. Self indulgences come from the idea of France constantly treating herself to pastries and solitude.

Scorpio
Russia//secretive, determined, resentful, powerful
Yours didn't change either; huh, Scorpio? I know it's a bit stereotypical to give the Scorpio zodiac Russia, but it fits far too well. Russia holds many secrets underneath that tough skin of has. He's mentally and physically overpowering, in a way.

Sagittarius
Japan//humoring, irresponsible, jovial, honest
A personal belief is that Japan is an adorable little bean with nothing but a love for Japanese cartoons and indulgent treats. Don't be fooled by that cute face, though. She'll point a katana in your face in no time. Japan has a knack for making making hilarious game shows, which reminded me of the Sagittarius sign's cynical humor.

Capricorn
Serbia//pessimistic, patient, careful
Serbia's pessimism is thankfully not overwhelming. A cynical attitude and a love for sarcasm. the Capricorn zodiac still hold a lot of emotion in that heart of yours, though. Caution is your best friend!

Aquarius
Switzerland//apathetic, detached, contrary, independent
Apathetic about the trivial wars that erupt against the people around you. Switzerland is always in a neutral mindset, never wanting to get involved with everyone's bickering. I respect that. Aquarius zodiac is occasionally kind, though! When someone's going through rough times, I assume you give your sympathy. The Aquarius's sign independence greatly compares to that of Switzerland's isolation.

Pisces
Philippines//vague, sensitive, sympathetic, melancholic, easily-influenced
The Pisces zodiac is stated to have an imaginative and empathetic yet melancholic personality. The countryhuman, Philippines, reminds me of this personality. He appears to have positive yet somewhat gloomy characteristics. Phil is sometimes seen to have a "love square" with America, Japan, and Spain. This relates to the imaginative and romantic mind that the Pisces zodiac generally relates to.

This... this took a while, if you couldn't tell. I tried much harder to find countryhumans that fit the Zodiacs. I won't be renewing this anymore, so I hope you all appreciate this renewed chapter.

I intend to add some drawn head shots of the zodiacs and their countryhumans to this chapter. It won't be much, but I like the idea of getting my art out there. I hope you are all having a fine day/ night, and are staying positive for the future. Remember, life is what you make it. Farewell.

#1: Who you met first + How

Hope you like.

Aries
You met Canada first. You had just recently got into a fight with a person. Being the strong person you are, though, you knocked them down easily. Despite your obvious win, you didn't get out of it unscathed. Canada just so happened to be walking by and offered to get you some pain killers and bandages. You took up the offer, and you both conversed on the way to the store.

Taurus
You met Japan first. She saw you eating some Pocky alone while you were scrolling on your phone at the park, and decided you needed a friend. She sat next to you and started to spark a conversation.

Gemini
You met Italy first. Your friend/relative invited you to a dinner that their friend was making, and you accepted because... well, FOOD! You made it there and there was all sorts of Italian cuisine on the table. Italy greeted you and told you to have as much as you like. You kept complimenting him on how good his cooking skills were, and he offered to made give you some if he made more than he anticipated in the future. You exchanged phone numbers and because friends instantly.

Cancer
You met Russia first. You were at the bar after having a breakdown from all of the work that was piling up around you. To calm yourself you went to the bar to have a light drink or two. Out of nowhere stumbled a drunk Russia, groaning and occasionally chugging the vodka bottle he haphazardly swung around. Russia almost hit you in the head with the bottle but you managed to dodge in time. He apologized through hiccups to you and decided to throw all of his problems onto you for some reason. You were nervous about him driving home in such a state, so you brought him to his house in your car. Apparently he had walked. You left him your phone number in case he needed another ride home if that happened again.

Leo
You met France first. You were walking in a garden to cool your temper after having a fight with a friend/sibling, gazing around at the beautiful scenery. You then caught your eyes onto France, and noticed she was painting. You quietly snuck a few feet behind her to watch her expertise. She called you out almost two minutes after, but said you're allowed to stay and chat if you'd like.

Virgo
You met Netherlands first. Well, technically you already knew him. Basically you found him doing weed and ended up taking it from him, worried for his health. He was angry with you at first before becoming docile and understood it made you anxious. You both ended up talking about other ways to cope with the anxiety that he had.

Libra
You met America first. Your friend/relative had invited you to a party at their house, and things started getting out of hand. People were rough housing, throwing food across the room, committing semi-sexual acts— it was nuts. All of a sudden you felt a presence next to you, and then something was around you neck. You looked to your side to see America smiling at you, asking why you weren't joining in on the fun. He held his arm around your neck while smiling. You didn't reply, so he dragged you outside to talk. You both ended up chatting it out near the pool.

Scorpio
You met Germany first. You've been slouching on your work at the job that you hated oh-so-much. People kept annoying you, asking dumb questions, etc etc.. You decided to step out of the place for a good while and began to take deep breaths. You looked to your side to see Germany slouching on the building's wall, drinking coffee. You asked him why he always worked so hard, and how he did it. He hadn't responded to you, so you both sat in silence for a while. He mumbled something under his breath before walking inside. You weren't sure if what he said was positive or negative, but you could've sworn there was a smile on his face.

Sagittarius
You met South Korea first. You met him while you were playing Minecraft, and he asked you to team up against the others so you could win. You would both duel it out at the end. This happened for a few more rounds before you exchanged discords(texting and calling app for gamers).

Capricorn
You met Britain first. He was calmly sipping some tear in a beautiful teacup that caught your eye. You asked him where he bought the cup from and he went on about how the teacup with priceless, and hand crafted, and... well, you get it. You were bored, so you ended up listening to the fine tales of how the teacup was created. He noticed you were still there, listening quietly to his blabbering. He then asked if you'd like some tea, as well.

Aquarius
You met Australia first. There was a huge unidentifiable bug in your house/apartment, and you told your friend/sibling. They told you about a person named Australia, and that they were really good with large bugs and pests. You got in contact with him and told him about your situation. He said he'd take care of it with no costs, and you sent him you're address.
Australia got there about 25 minutes later, and told you he'd find you for you. It took another 25 minutes before he opened the door with a the bug in a glass bottle. It was a tarantula. He told you that he'd take care take it somewhere safe, and said if you ever have anymore problems he was the guy to call.
Later he texted you a picture of the tarantula with "I named him Terry!" Below it.

Pisces
You met Poland first. Just recently you had a massive breakup with your ex lover, them dumping you for someone who was more "down to earth". So there you were, stirring some (favorite drink) in a café, spacing out. All of a sudden you heard someone sit across from you. It was Poland. He asked you why you looked so sad, and you simply replied "because good things never last." He sipped some of his coffee before saying "Sometimes you have to go through the bad to get to the good." That made you smile. You ended up talking for a while, and exchanged numbers.

#2:Who you usually chill with

Howdy, strangers.

Aries
Canada has been your friend ever since that day he helped you. He defuses any situations where it seems like you'll get into another fight. Now that you hang with him, they happen less often.

Taurus
You and America eat from fast food restaurants and jokingly critique them with proper grammar, also imitating UK. Little do you both know, he can sense himself being slandered and is on his way.

Gemini
New Zealand tells you stories about ideas he's come up with, as well as things he's done in the past. He asks to hang out with you when Australia is busy.

Cancer
Poland likes to watch old movies with you from time to time, as well as predict movie endings. Sometimes you get into arguments about it, but it's not friendship-breaking ones.

Leo
Norway likes to go on runs with you for exercise. When taking a break, you two give each other music to listen to, and then give honest opinions on them by the end of it.

Virgo
Now, being sweet to someone is always a pleasant surprise, but South Korea's sweetness is overwhelming to you sometimes. Despite that, both of you talk about gaming strategies and eat Korean food(made by SK!). He always tries to introduce you to multiplayer games that you can both play.

Libra
Vietnam shows off his ~~Amalgamations~~ creations to you sometimes!

He asks for feedback for his creations, and you try to give them as vaguely as possible as to preserve his confidence. Sometimes he even asks you to help him!

Scorpio
Japan gets into heated arguments with you about the best anime ships, and which ones are bound to sail in animes. You also binge watch anime series.
(Sometimes Poland and Cancer binge with you guys as well!)

Sagittarius
Usually the EU would be all about business, but he doesn't mind talking to you occasionally. He hates it when you send him memes but won't hold a grudge... Well, unless it's a meme about him banning memes.

Capricorn
Honestly, Russia just calls you over to have someone around. Sometimes you two don't even talk- just sit in peace.

Aquarius
Luxembourg was a bit suspicious of you when you first met him, but you two became much closer. Now you both take walks to places while talking about the most random of things.

Pisces
Germany helps you with anything you're confused with after a bit of begging. He still enjoys your company, though. When you're both free, he talks to you about theories to stop climate change.

#3: Who developed a crush on you

Thank you for the 100+ reads. This also includes how long the crush lasted, and if you got together. 💕

Aries
Norway; It lasted for half a year. You're energetic and adventurous attitude kept him running after you. While you two were jogging around a forest, he stopped you and asked, "wanna go out?" You said sure, and both of you kept going on your little marathon. Eventually he brought you out on a proper date. You two ended up together.

Taurus
Italy; It lasted a month. He loved that you loved his cooking, and offered for you to help him sometimes. You said yes, and both of you practiced cooking at least once ever week ever since. One day he told you that he wanted to cook alone, and you confusedly went to the dining room. About fifteen minutes later he brought you a pizza with heart shaped pepperonis. He asked; "Will you be my chef-ette?" It took you a bit to realize what he meant, and you said yes. You both ended up together.

Gemini
Ukraine; It lasted one month. He loved to pick flowers with you and make multiple flower crown combinations. You two also watched different television shows when you weren't talking about the most random things. His crush faded into a simple friendship. You two did not end up together.

Cancer
Canada; It lasted for two months. He thought you were the sweetest person in the world, and still does. His crush faded as he started to see you more as a sibling. You didn't end up together.

Leo

America; It surprisingly lasted for four months. He loves your personality and, for some reason, your hair. He asked you out and you were a bit on edge about it, since he has a lot of ex's. Still, you gave him a chance. You two ended up together.

Virgo
Brazil; It lasted ten days approximately. He always encouraged you to try Brazilian foods, and you went to his many football games. His crush faded away when he realized he loved you as a best friend, not a lover. You two did not end up together.

Libra
EU; It lasted for four months before you caught on and asked him out. He loves your ability to calm a room, and carry peace wherever you are. You two ended up together.

Scorpio
Russia; it lasted about two weeks. He loved your tough attitude and calming demeanor. He isn't one for love though, so he forced his feelings away. You didn't end up together(?).

Sagittarius
Vietnam; It lasted ~~A decade~~ an entire year. His inventions had been greatly improving ever since he met you. He fell in love with you, rather than developed a crush. Although he loved you greatly he was too stubborn to admit it. You asked him out, and he said 'whatever'. His face was a blushing mess though. You two ended up together.

Capricorn
Finland; It lasted literally a minute. You had brought him some alcohol since you knew he liked it so much. No ones ever done that for him, so he thought you romantically liked him. He brushed it off and said he has no need for a lover. You two did not end up together.

Aquarius
S.Korea; it lasted for a whole year. He always tried his hardest to get close to you, and played Minecraft with you very often. He eventually asked you in Minecraft by putting his bed next to yours and typed in the chat: "will you be the mine to my craft?" You simply typed ofc(of course). You two end up together.

Pisces
Germany; It lasted a week. You didn't catch on because he's was way to good at hiding it, so evidently you did not end up together.

Letter from the Author...

Dear readers,

Hello everyone. I hope you are all having a fine day. You might have all noticed my absence as of late, and I'd like to justify it. My school grades have been slacking recently. I haven't been posting because I have been attempting to find way to bring them back up. There should be a new post or two this weekend, but can't promise anything. But rest assured I will return!(eventually...)

Sincerely, Author

#4: The Filler

Greeting everyone! Today I'll be making small scenarios for all of the zodiacs. The chosen countryhumans are randomized and not chosen by compatibility this time, sorry! This DOES contain cursing, by the way...

Aries
"Hon, are you sure you want to go for a run right now?" Norway asked. He watched as you wobbled out of the bathroom. Your hair was in a messy bun that looked as if it would fall out any moment. Bags were defined underneath your eyes. You let out a peppy hum that ended up somehow making your voice crack.
"I'm fine! Let's go," You slurred. Norway's face scrunched with worry. He walked up to you and picked you up bridal style. You gasped as he brought you back to your bedroom. You began to complain, saying that you were perfectly fine, and that you could run with him.
"I'm not going for a run anymore," he said. Norway softly placed you on the bed. He pulled the blanket over you and hummed. "You're a lot more important right now."

Taurus
You took another bite out of your cheeseburger. America had brought you to the park because... well, why not? You two sat lazily on a bench, talking about random things. America then mentioned you had food on your face. You nodded to him in acknowledgment... then you used his shirt as a napkin. His eyes widened as he desperately attempted to get the ketchup stain out of his shirt. You laughed sadistically at your mischievousness.

Gemini
"BOO!" Romania yelled out. You screeched, losing your grip on the many books that you were balancing cautiously between your arms. The books were sent flying as you plummeted to the floor, a few hitting the top of your head. Romania let out an "oof," as he too fell to the floor. You rubbed the top of your head and sighed. "Dummy! I dropped all my books...!" You exclaimed. You let out an exasperated sigh and started to pick your things up. Out of the corner of your eye you could tell Romania was trying to help. He mumbled a quick sorry as he began to stack them. You huffed and smiled at his sudden mood swing. Once the two of you picked up the book, you toppled the ones you were holding onto Romania's pile and put on a smug smile.

"Sorry isn't going to cut it. Follow me," You said as you began to walk off. Romania rolled his eyes at your sassiness and followed after you.

Cancer
He was drunk AGAIN.
You grumbled as you pulled the drunk Russian by the arm out of the bar. He slurred insulting names in Russian to you, but you ignored it as best you could. The moon began to disappear being the building, ever so often a car flying by. You had to find your car.
"Why do you care so much? I don't care about you that much," Russia hissed. Despite his sour attitude he didn't try pulling away from your soft grip. You didn't know how to respond, so you didn't for a while. Russia let out a hiccup.
"...Or do I?" He muttered. You could feel the smirk begin to grow on his face. You tensed at what he said, cheeks beginning to flush red. Russia bursted into laughter at your reaction. It's not even that funny, you thought to yourself. You spotted your (f/c) car and began to power walk towards it. You didn't like parking near the bar. Mostly because of last time's incident. Germany didn't even apologize to you!
Once you made it to the car, you unlocked it and threw open the door back door. Russia climbed in with a bit of help from you. He was still giggling when you shut the door. You opened the front car door, and sat inside. Taking a few deep breathes, you shoved the key into its lock and started the engine. Russia let out a 'whoa' when he heard the engine come to life.
"Кукла, take me to the park! I want to crash a barbecue!" Russia demanded. You groaned and started up the car. Why did you care so much about this alcoholic nitwit, anyways? Perhaps it was a motherly instinct? You quickly put on child lock. Yeah, instinct. Pulling out of the spot, you began to drive to Russia's home. You listened quietly to his drunken nonsense, giggling occasionally.
(Hey, Reader? Why DO you care so much?)

Leo
South Korea let out a heavy groan as the match had come to an end, his character flying off the screen. You laughed dramatically at his failure and poked his cheek playfully.
"Can't beat the best, now can you?" You said triumphantly. South Korea moved from your physical contact only to come back by biting your finger. You yelled in equal surprise and pain, then bonked him in the head with your other hand. He stopped biting you immediately and attempted to soothe his newly created headache.

Virgo
"(Y/n)! (Y/n)?? (Y/n)~?" You heard. Your eyes cracked open as you let out a groan of exhaustion. You then felt something scratchy slap your face. You tiredly swatted whatever it was and turned over.
"(Y/n), you fell asleep on the floor again." Poland said. Your eyes snapped open this time. You quickly sat up and regret your decision, eyes being dotted with black as your head became light. You attempted to recover quickly as you stood up. Poland dropped whatever he was holding and came to your aid. He held you up so you wouldn't fall again.
"Orthostatic hypotension?" He asked calmly. You tilted your head to this. He smiled and shook his head.
"Let's get you home, yeah?"

Libra
You watched as Netherlands hit his head on the desk once again. You let out an exasperated sigh at the consistency. Netherlands quickly picked his head up from the impact and his eyes widened. They were tinted pink. You couldn't tell if it were from the weed or form the lack of sleep, but he looked like garbage. To keep him awake, you balled up a piece of loose leaf paper and pitched it at the back of his head. He turned around once it had hit him and looked you dead in your eyes. He balled up his worksheet paper and pitched it back. It hit your forehead. Netherlands smiled smugly and turned back around. He gasped when he couldn't find his paper.

Scorpio
‼️Vulgar language warning‼️

"Чорт! ТРАХКАТИ—" Ukraine screeched as blood splattered onto the TV. A bloodcurdling screamed emitted from it, the face a the main antagonist grinning maniacally. You stuffed more popcorn into your mouth at the sight. Ukraine scooted closer to you and wrapped himself underneath the blanket that shielded you from the cold tensity of Ukraine's home.
"SHUT THE FUCK UP, UKRAINE!" You heard one of the siblings screech. You giggled. Ukraine grumbled something underneath his breath in Ukrainian as he stuffed more popcorn into his mouth. You felt his head topple onto yours.
"Can we watch something else?..." he huffed. You smiled at him. "Sure."

Sagittarius
You were sleeping peacefully in your bed, blankets wrapped around you in just the right manner. You looked peaceful, a cute smile laying on your face.
That's when you felt it.
Something cold and smooth smacked into your face. Your eyes began to flutter open. A hand reached over to wipe away the feeling onto to be met with the same one on it. Your eyes now fully open in confusion, noticed that maple syrup was being slathered onto you. Immediately you looked up to see a snickering Canada. Your brows furrowed and your teeth clenched.
"Canada, you have five seconds before I come and pour maple syrup into your eyes and tape them shut with flex tape." You hissed angrily. Canada dropped the bottle of maple syrup unintentionally and began to run and slammed your door shut.
Bonus:
"WHO ARE YOU TO BE SLAMMING DOORS WHEN I PAY THE BILLS?!" You yelled groggily. You in fact, did not pay the bills in the house.

Capricorn
"What do you think of this, 'tica?" You asked softly. You shoved your phone's screen in the blue boy's face. His eyes widened before they softened up. He smiled at you intently and nodded. You smiled back and pulled the phone away from his vision. You had shown him a picture of the new goggles you would order him. His old ones began to somehow get on his nerves, so you just had to get new ones for him. You quickly bought the item and let out a soft sigh. Antarctica tapped your and your turned your head to him.

Thank you, he signed.

Aquarius
Ireland
"And then— I THREW COFFEE IN HIS FACE!" Ireland boomed. He laughed heartily afterwards. You chuckled as he took a large swig of his beer. Ireland let out a sigh of relief as he made eye contact with you.
"Did I ever tell you how much of a beaut you are?" He said softly. Your face flushed red at the comment. You broke the eye contact you had.
"I-um.. I don't...what?" You babbled. Ireland then went into a fit of laughter. He fell out of his stool and onto the floor, clutching his stomach.
"You should see your face! It was so—" He cut himself off with laughter. Your couldn't help but laugh, too.

Pisces
You and France were having your daily peace-time. The two of you sat calmly in France's garden that she cared for oh-so dearly, listening to the birds chirping and the rustle of leaves in the wind. When France first met you she immediately noticed how anxious you were. This led to her offering you time in her garden every so often. At first you were reluctant; but eventually caved in and went. Slowly it became a tradition that you two did this together.

#5: Their gift to you!

Which countryhumans gets you a gift? What will the gift be?

Aries
South Korea had bought you a new gaming controller. Your old one had been acting up and randomly flipping your character around, making you unable to play. While you were playing a multiplayer game with SK, he noticed your character acting stranger and thought to buy you a new controller before even asking you.
He gave it to you when you invited him over to watch Netflix together. It was (favorite color), with a (favorite pattern) pattern. You of course thanked him for it and set it in your room.

Taurus
You and Romania were watching a cooking show together after wandering the mall for an hour or two. You were both jokingly talking about how either of you could cook better with just an easy bake oven. Once it was time to go, Romania said his good byes and left.
The next day he came to your house, lugging a huge box in his arms while trying to hold back his laughter. You were confused and sleepy, but you let him inside anyways. He dropped the box onto your kitchen's counter and told you to open it. You did with a bit of help from a kitchen knife. Lo and behold, it's an easy bake oven. You had to register why he would buy such a thing and bring it to you if all people. When it clicked though, you both were on the floor cracking up.
In the end you two ended up breaking it. Fun while it lasted, though.

Gemini
It happened somewhat expectedly, but still left you in shock. UK handed you a small white box that had the engraving of a company you couldn't identify. The two of you were at a restaurant after making plans to talk about hobbies and get to know each other. He encouraged you to open it, so you did.

It was a beautiful golden pocket mirror. It had your initials carved into into the front . When you clipped it open it showed your crystal clear reflection. Your eyes glittered as you mumbled a thank you. You said it a little louder in case he hadn't heard you, and smiled kindly. He smiled back.

Cancer
America gifted you a cheese burger. You heard me right; a cheese burger. It wasn't exactly a gifting, rather a prank. He chucked it at your face after doing a knock knock joke with you. You remained unfazed and ate it. He stopped laughing immediately and got sad because that was his only one at the time :(.

Leo
It was during the fall time. Chile noticed you hadn't had anything colorful to wear. Your outerwear mostly consisted of blacks and de-saturated colors. In response to this lack of personality in your clothes, he took your favorite vibrant color and maximized it on your poncho.
He gave it to you one day and complained about your lack of spirit. You put it on immediately and thanked him.

Virgo
You and Latvia were conversing about cultural foods. She talked greatly about potatoes, but this was expected. She was saying how she puts them in almost everything. You listed off the many things potatoes would not usually go with, and eventually you said "Even PANCAKED POTATOES?!" to which she got up from her couch and walked into the kitchen. You were confused but awaited her next arrival patiently. She came back about five minutes later with a plate with... potato pancakes. Latvia stated that she had some leftovers that she was willing to share. You took the plate and ate some. Unsurprisingly, it was amazing. You two continued to dive into more Latvian culinary choices.

Libra
You honestly had no need for it, but a gift is a gift.
China gave you a porcelain tea set and stated that he had extras. You took it and mumbled a thank you while examining the outstanding pottery skills. UK talked highly about the gifts, stating that they were also well handcrafted. He seemed a bit jealous at your gift but didn't bother to ask for it. You were sure China wouldn't care, so you ended up offering them to him. He obliged your offer, despite the obvious pained look. He must've seen his rejection as gentlemanly.

Scorpio
Russia gave you a bottle of vodka after hearing you've never drunk before. He told you that he expected someone like you to drink often, and you obviously took offense to that. Still, you took his offer and observed it for a second. It was quite strong for your first alcoholic beverage. Russia gave you tips on how to make the drink a little tastier, and less strong. You noted these things down.

It's up to you whether you drunk it or not.
If you didn't, then he wouldn't care; he'd simply ask for it back.

If you did, then you end up going to the bar with him and talking about random things while slowly getting drunk and experimenting with new drinks.

Sagittarius
You had been forced to go to this fancy restaurant by Belarus. She's amazing and all, but wearing fancy clothes and going to high class parties is not. While you were putting your clothes on, Belarus came in with a bow matching the one on her head. You of course put it on and gave the bow and Belarus compliments. After the party she said you could keep it.

Capricorn
When Egypt mentioned shawarma, you stated that you had never heard of such a thing in your life. He gasped dramatically and rambled about the different combinations you could use, and how delicious his favorite combination was. He convinced you to go with him to a place that specializes in shawarma, and bought you one. To no surprise it was amazing. He gave you more ideas on what to put in shawarma, and asked if later you two could make some together.

Aquarius
Canada honestly just wanted to be twins with someone. He gifted you the scarf during the fall, where it would be most fashionable. It was similar to his, except the stripes weren't red and white, they were (favorite color) and (white/black). You accepted it and wore it around with him. Canada stated that he made one for his brother, but he hadn't seen him put it on. This made you two sad of course, so you promised that you'd wear the one he gave you whenever you could. This left a smile on his face that lasted the entire day.

Pisces

Germany had asked to use your home computer while you were away on vacation. Yours was a lot less clunky than his, and he would just insert his own account instead of using yours. You agreed to his offer with a smile. He thanked you and went back to working on his own computer for the time being.

Once you got back from your vacation, your computer was back in your room... but something was off. You had an entirely different mouse than from last time. Originally the mouse was black and (favorite color), and was wired. This time it had a (favorite pattern) pattern, and was (second favorite color). It was wireless, as well.

You confronted Germany about this, and he embarrassingly explained how he had fallen asleep on the computer and drooled on the old mouse. He didn't know if it would still work or not because he instinctively bought you a new one.

You thanked him and gave him a hug, saying that you appreciated the replacement instead of ignoring it.

#6: Outdoors Activities

Aries
You and America decided to take a break from watched basketball to do some grilling. He ended up making hamburgers while you were grilling steaks and sausages. The smell was absolutely delectable. It reeled in Australia, Canada, New Zealand, and UK. You all sat down to converse after the food was done. They complimented your cooking skills, as well as America's— though you were sure America was giving you the stink eye.

Taurus
You felt the wind hit your face as your skateboard flew up the ramp, along with yourself. It was exhilarating, and the feeling made your blood rush. South Korea had invited you to go skateboarding with him and New Zealand. You accepted excitedly and retrieved your skateboard. Of course you all rode the entire way there, with a few mishaps.
You  and SK had a contest to see who could do the best tricks. You ended up winning, but you still complimented all of SK's tricks and uniqueness. You ended up teaching SK some tricks, and he taught you most of his. New Zealand stuck out, since he's new to skateboarding. He didn't mind being a judge.

Gemini
You and Japan were cosplaying as two anime characters from the same anime. You planned out the cosplays earlier on, and they came out extremely well! They ended up being so well that Japan offered for you to LARP(Live Action Role Play) with her! You agreed to do it in secret, since LARPing was seen as embarrassing to the both of you.
The role play was going swimmingly. You both fell deep into character and genuinely had fun! Luckily you didn't get caught by anyone... or at least, you didn't notice yourself getting caught.

Cancer
Surprisingly, Netherlands was not higher than a kite the day he had asked you to go photographing with him. This obviously astonished you, but you accepted. The two of you wandered a forest that was absolutely beautiful. The luscious greenery made everything seem surreal and magical. Birds chirping and the rustle of leaves billowing I'm the wind put the both of you at ease.
You both ended up taking pictures of birds you both couldn't analyze. At some point in your exploration, you saw a rabbit with strangely unnatural colored fur. Sadly, it ran away too fast for you to get a picture. It had run away from the sound of someone yelling out. You and Netherlands decided to investigate. It turned out to be Gemini and Japan LARPing. The two of you shrugged it off and left it alone, but not before snapping a few photos to send to them later.

Leo
You don't know why you decided to play soccer with Brazil. He's far too good at playing it. Whenever you try to get a score against him, he manages to outsmart you entirely. You began to become envious of these skills. Eventually you admitted to being tuckered out, and you both conversed over slushees. He stated that you were good, but not as good as him. You smacked the back of his head and called him a narc. He laughed at your attitude. To your dismay, his laugh was contagious. You started laughing as well.

Virgo
You weren't really surprised when you were told Australia owned a zoo. He offered to show you around. Deep down you knew he just wanted to talk about his animals, but hearing him be so passionate about them always put a smile on your face. You accepted and he dragged you there almost immediately.
He had given all of the animals individual names, and could even tell the difference between all of them. You found it adorable with he had said he named one of his tarantulas after you, and thanked him. He said they reminded him of your personality.
The sun was disappearing behind the towering buildings by the time the two of you began to exit. He stated that you were welcomed to come back at any time.

Libra

Germany had come to you to help him with a work project. He stated nervously that he had accidentally dismissed it, and needs help gathering hand made notes on nature, as well as pictures. You agreed to help him, seeing as he probably wouldn't give up on getting you to help.
The two of you had fun taking pictures of different flower species and tree types. You jokingly photobombed some of the pictures. The two of you switched from writing and taking pictures ever so often. The sun was setting when he decided he'd gathered enough information. He thanked you and waved a goodbye as he made way for his house.

Scorpio
It was a summer night. There was a small breeze picking up outside, and the stars seemed to shine brighter. The rare appearance of clouds made the night evermore beautiful.
Greece dragged you outside at around eleven at night, ecstatic to show you some constellations he'd found. You were a little grumpy at first, but ended up being absolutely astonished by Greece's knowledge of the cosmos. He picked out all of the constellation locations without even looking at times. Watching the light of genuine excitement flicker in Greece's eyes every time you asked about the constellations made your heart smile. Later you said your goodbye and went straight to bed.

Sagittarius
Canada forced you away from (favorite game), complaining that you almost never go outside anymore. You hissed at him, saying that you go outside often. This was a half lie, but you wouldn't admit it.
Canada drove you to a park. There were many dogs playing around. The variety of different dogs just living in the moment made Canada giddy. He immediately went around to play with them.
You sat under a tree to catch some shade and play a mobile game. While you were on your phone, though, a certain dog had made their way to you and quietly watched you play your game. When you had finished the level, you looked over to see it was a (favorite dog breed). They didn't seem to have a collar, but you didn't want to take any chances. You tried moving away from the dog, but they were persistent. Canada noticed and stated that they liked you.

With the dog following you around, there was no way you could leave.
You ended up staying just in case the owner came around to pick them up. The time span quickly went from minutes to hours of you waiting, and it was becoming night time. Eventually you began to think that the poor pup had been abandoned. Canada attempted to distract the dog from you, but they just wouldn't budge. You made a choice:

Keep the pup;
You decided that maybe having a dog wouldn't be so bad. If the owner genuinely missed the dog, they would put up posters. Canada helped you pick out some fairly cheap dog items in case he did end up being someone else's.
To your surprise, no one had taken the dog or put up any signs. You bought better items for them and soon made a bond. At least you weren't lonely anymore.
Leave the pup;
You made a run for it. You were NOT going to get in trouble for dog napping. The dog was hot on your tail, but soon slowed down. Canada followed after you and drove you home.

Capricorn
Sweden, Iceland, and Finland brought you to a paint balling area to have some fun. You chose to do teams, you teaming with Sweden. He was surprisingly good at this sport. Iceland and Finland were fairly sneaky in defense, though. They had snuck up on you more than a few times and attacked you. Luckily they hadn't managed to get either of you down yet. While the two of you were strategizing, though, Finland had snuck behind you and hit you with a paintball! Sweden drove him away quickly and dramatically mourned your "death." He ended up behind shot by Iceland. Afterwards you four had snowballs and went home.

Aquarius
You and France had planned this out already. There was a nature walk area that had a list of animals that you could find. The two of you would have a semi-race to see who could find the most animals. The animals you both saw were mostly adorable, and you saw the simple details that made them differ from other breeds of it's kind.

France ended up winning by a long shot, but that was because you were sitting back and taking note of the animals rather than racing to find all of them. France complimented you on your way of concentration and mental notation skills. She was kind of sad that there wasn't much competition, though. You bought her some candy of her choosing as a winning gift, and the both of you parted ways after saying goodbye.

Pisces
Ukraine had shaken you awake one day after the two of you had a sleepover. She was practically bouncing up at down, asking you to go to the beach with her. You groggily said sure, unsure of what you were getting yourself into. Once you were up and sober, it dawned to you on what had happened.
The two of you packed accordingly and made your way to the beach. You set up a place to stay while Ukraine made her way to the ocean water. You watched from your spot as she tried to get accustomed to the water temperature. You eventually made your way over so that she wouldn't be alone. Ukraine dragged you into the ocean, causing you to scream from the cold temperature. You splashed water onto her and she splashed water back. To say the least, it was fun to get out and joke around and swim.
Later the two of you got boba tea and had some khrustyky cookies to Ukraine's delight. You made tall sand castle, and even collected a few seashells.
Once Ukraine had dropped you off at your home, she thanked you for the trip and stated that you two should go places more often.

How was it? Do you have any feedback for me?

#7: "You did what?!"

Uh-oh. Looks like you've managed to get one of the countryhumans angry! Who was it? What did you even do?

♈ Aries
What could you do? You were hungry, and needed to leave soon. You found some food in the fridge of Aussie's place, and decided to warm it up. Aussie hadn't commented on it when he walked past you, so you thought it was okay. Soon you left to go do whatever it was you were desperately trying to rush to get to.
Once you had went back to Aussie's house for a visit, you found him being yelled at my a drowsy New Zealand. He began to pout childishly as Australia attempted to explain something. You asked what was going on calmly, and it turns out NZ's food had gone missing. It clicked in your head quickly, and you could tell it did in Aussie's as well.
You calmly explained to Zealand that you would get him some more of what you had eaten, and that you were sorry. He hesitantly forgave you and you kept your word.

♉ Taurus
You didn't know how, but Russia had immediately suspected you of your harmless prank. He wasn't necessarily outraged by your little joke, but he was pretty annoyed. You nervously laughed it off as Russia loomed over you menacingly. Your hands were shaking a little when you pulled out his freshly bought vodka bottle from under your bed. He hissed a "never do that again," at you and walked away. Your rebuttal was to stick your tongue at him behind his back.

♊ Gemini
You knew Japan was going to be angry.
You desperately fumbled to throw the sopping manga book out of the bath tub. It hit the floor with a sorrowful smack, and released the water that was building up inside of it from the impact. You winced as your face fell into a cringe. You could already depict

Japan unsheathing her katana and threatening you.
I could just replace it, you thought. It can't be that much, you presumed. You were so, so wrong. The manga was 6000 yen(55 USD, 50 EURO)! You'd have to explain to her about what you'd done.
It was not pretty.
She was angrily cursing you out in Japanese, katana pointed straight to your throat. She told you to leave, and so you did. You'd repay her later.

♋Cancer
The UK was furious with you. You had accidentally dropped his favorite tea set... whoops. His face went from majority ocean blue to bold red in a matter of seconds. You apologized before he was able to explode.
He began to yell about "how expensive the set was," and "how clumsy you were." You sat there, taking it so his temper wouldn't get even worse.
After about 5 minutes of yelling, he brought himself to a halt. He recognized how much of a ruckus he was creating, and cleared his throat. You internally let out a sigh of relief.
"£200." He stated, before walking away. It would seem like he were stomping if it weren't for his elegant posture. You sat there, wondering if you could somehow get out of this without having to pay.
Nothing came to mind.

♌Leo
You huffed angrily, arms crossed and foot tapping repeatedly on the floor. Before you was a knocked out America, snoring louder than revving motorcycle. You were getting tired of having to do all of his work. Being treated like a housewife was a no-go. In return of America's laziness, you decided to spite him by throwing out his favorite jersey. You simply threw it in the trash and buried it underneath the garbage he was supposed to take out.
America rose later that day. He told you he had a game to go to, to which you replied nonchalantly. He went in the bedroom and didn't come out until 15 minutes later. He asked you where his jersey was. You replied mischievously, "You should have done your part of the chores." You watched as his face went from confused, to shocked, to angered.

♍ Virgo
"I'm not sensitive!" Poland said, raising his voice angrily. You were doing some playful bantering with Poland. You offered to help him out on a party coming up. It would be Hungary's birthday soon. You were hoping that Poland would let you handle the foods, but he simply called you over to come up with ideas. "We could have just done that over the phone," you told him. He got flustered and stated it's best to prioritize the situation by not having other distractions.
At some point, you began to jokingly tease Poland about his feelings towards Hungary. Of course he continued to deny this. His face was becoming redder by the second. You couldn't tell if it were from embarrassment or anger.
When he started to spit half-insults back, you jokingly called him sensitive. He didn't take kindly to that.
Now here you were, laughing to yourself and Poland gave off multiple reasons on why he wasn't sensitive. If it got to the point, you would apologize.

♎ Libra
You happily munched down on the last (flavor) pocky stick of the box. You reached in to fish for another one of it's cookie goodness; but to no avail. You had emptied it out! You simply shrugged this off and got up to get some more. S.Korea wouldn't mind... right? You waltzed over to the kitchen's closet and scanned the shelves quickly. No pocky in sight. Again you examined the shelves, this time a bit slower. Perhaps you had missed it the first time in your impatience. None at all.
Suddenly you heard footsteps. You turned around to see South Korea, holding a water gun. He looked mad, but not boiling mad. I'm a way, he almost looked hurt. You recoiled from the sight and threw your hands out, guarding your body from the possible oncoming stream of water. He asked you if you ate all the pocky. You unintentionally replied yes, which caused him to soak you in ice cold water. He aimed from your stomach, causing you to cover that area; then your face. After bathing you in water and also getting some sink water thrown on himself, you both had a bit of a laughing fit. He was still mad at you of course, so you bought him two packs of his favorite.

♏ Scorpio
It was a simple joke. Why was Finland making such a big deal out of it?!
You hid in the bathroom closet, wondering why you were cowering in fear from the alcoholic country. You could easily take him down... but you weren't sure if Estonia would appreciate a fight breaking out. It was then you heard her likely trailing after Finland, telling him that it was only playful bickering, but he wasn't having it. Finland proclaimed that he would kick you to so far out of the atmosphere, Poland would be jealous. Estonia and yourself were still confused on why he had gotten so angry about the squabble. You and Estonia always spoke like that to each other. It was your thing. Still, here this country was, stomping around, being chased by a small country that began to get angry with his irrational actions. You didn't know how long you were willing to wait; but time was ticking. Perhaps you'd have to fight.

♐ Sagittarius
You were unloading the washing machine, humming your favorite tune. You placed all of the clothes inside of the dryer just after you straightened them out so they wouldn't be so wrinkled. At first you were doing it almost robotically, making the same movements over and over again. It wasn't until you came across Philippine's shrunken bandana that your unbreakable cycle was snapped. His favorite bandana had been completely ruined by the washing machine's scorching water. Your eyes widened with absolute shock. You'd always been told not to get on Phil's bad side.
Your first thought was to argue back. You hadn't known if was in there, therefore it wasn't your fault, right? Your mind was being flooded with precise plans to utilize your fight or flight response. Perhaps you'd cooly speak to him; and then he'd understand your mistake.
It was then that Phil opened the door calmly and asked you in a confused manner; "have you seen my favorite bandana?" You kept your cool and stated nonchalantly that you haven't. He eyed you suspiciously for a second before walking away. You were safe from his asperity... for now.

♑ Capricorn
All you heard was Australia yelling "my baby!" while desperately asking his pet tarantula questions. You slowly began to back away from the crime scene. Your grip on the bat behind your back tightened, as did your facial expression. It had crawled begun to crawl up your body, so instinctively you attacked with the nearest weapon possible. It wasn't your fault! Right???
You felt a hand on your shoulder all of a sudden. It's grip began to tighten, and you began to sweat from the sudden sweltering air. Your (e/c) eyes landed on Aussy's pure white ones. He looked absolutely deranged. Your fight or flight response kicked in. You flew from his grip, escaping his wrath scarcely. Immediately you barged out of the door. Aussy tailed behind with what seemed like a golf club, screaming like a senseless child. You too began to scream; but in absolute terror.

♒ Aquarius
"You're so mean, (y/n)!!" Canada had said recently. It looked like he was about to start crying any second. You were just teasing him. Why was he being so sensitive about it?
Canada made some simple insults back to you. He ended up saying sorry right after, but was still mad at you for not being more sympathetic with him.
Canada had recently been rejected by his crush. It only lasted for a week, and he wasn't that hurt by it, but he still wanted you to emphasize with him. Sadly you hadn't caught on and taunted him. Now here you were, apologizing to the sensitive country who had his arms crossed and cheeks puffed out childishly.

♓ Pisces
No one is mad. You are simply too baby. That is all.

Should I start putting my stories in present tense? And Pisces, if you want an actual story then just reply here!
I hope you all liked this chapter!

#8: America's Party

Hey! I'm sorry if this is a bit low quality compared to my other chapters; I just wanted to update and show that I'm alive! Not very well, but alive!! I hope you are all doing okay and find happiness in the future if not.
...
Oh yeah!
Thank you all so much for 2K reads! I didn't expect us to get this far! I feel I have much more confidence in my writing because of all of you. Thank you!💕
———

You were given an invitation/offered to attend America's party! What are you doing??

♈Aries
"NO UNO!" America yelled as he pointed at you. You groaned and rolled your eyes, pulling two cards from the faltering stack of Uno cards. Sweden laughs at your dismay as he glances down at his own three cards. Ukraine squints his eyes at America, unsure if he is cheating or not.

♉Taurus
You snag another batch of freshly made brownies and slide them onto the counter for cutting. Italy notices and takes out a knife, swiftly putting an end the the full goodness of the brownie cake. You smile sweetly at your job well done and tend to other foods that need to be spiced or cooled down.

♊Gemini
You snatched the bottle of maple syrup from Canada's hands quickly. He looked at you in a shocked and almost sad manner, unsure of how to react. You furrow you're brows and huff.
"You can't just put maple syrup on everything!" You stated with a hint of annoyance. He too began to pout, which his cheeks puffed out and an angry expression on his face. He snatched the bottle from your loosened grip in response, and eyed you as the maple syrup dripped on the freshly made brownies.

"Nada!!" You nagged.

♋ Cancer
You slouched against Poland's shoulder and groaned. He placed his hand on your head and pat you before letting out an exasperated sigh himself. You slowly began to regret ever coming to the rowdy party, and so was Poland. For you; you didn't know a single person at the party, therefore reverting you back to wallflower status. Poland was just as bad; feeling too anxious and awkward to genuinely communicate with anyone. Over a series of text messages, the two of you devised a plan to escape the extroverts of the party's wrath. Then the two of you would likely have your own party at home; which includes pizza and movies.

♌ Leo
It's literally a sweater. What's this old man screaming about? All it uses is a bit of profanity and gore. It's a party, for heaven's sake!
You slouched your back and looked over at the dinner table, where America, Ukraine, Sweden, and Aries were having fun with UNO. You desperately wanted to join.
"Are you even listening to me, young (man/lady/child?!)" Britain said to you. You lazily nodded your head. You felt like a child being nagged by a parent.

♍ Virgo
"I thought you said you were bad at this?!" You exclaimed playfully. You softly punched Germany's arm as the winning screen appeared with his character plastered onto it as first place. He kindly laughs at your banter and offers another match. You accept. You'd win to him, even if it took the whole party!

♎ Libra
You felt a splash of water him your already drenched face. With a playful giggle you swatted back, hearing the laughter of the adorable Japan. You were surprised she was willing to even step foot near the water since she was partially cat. Now the two of you stood on the shallow side, chatting and play fighting each other.
"CANNON BALL!!" Was all the warning you got before you were pushed away by an a unknown force.
South Korea jumped into the water off of the diving board. A tidal wave of water came crashing down on both you and Japan. You desperately shielded yourself from the tide completely devouring you, and held your breath. Shortly after that incident both you and Japan emerged from the watery depths to a shying away SK. The both of you glanced at each other, knowing exactly what you were about to do.

♏ Scorpio
"It's in here," you heard the victim country state. You watched and the silhouette calmly opened the door and felt their leg being tugged on. All of a sudden there was a pan full of dough plastered onto their face. You snickered quietly to yourself.
"I swear to all things holy if (y/n) did this, they're in for a treat."

♐ Sagittarius
It wasn't as exhilarating as you had expected it to be.
America chose you to be the DJ at the party. He knew you'd be able to sample everyones tastes in no time, as they weren't necessarily hard to read. Many complimented you on your choice of music, while some blatantly stated to change it. You held up well, though. You even got a few candy brownies from Taurus as a gift for working so hard! You could tell they wanted them for themselves, though.

♑ Capricorn
You question this over and over again in your head, hoping to come up with a valid answer.
Why am I here? You asked yourself for the 6,000th time. It could've been the convincing and energetic smile of America, or the fact that you expected a tamer party... how silly of you.
Your eyes flickered over to the famed wallflowers; Cancer and Poland. You could tell they were up to something, and contemplated joining in, just in case they were ditching.

♒ Aquarius
You didn't go at all. (Favorite show) was finally getting an update, and you were desperate to binge it. Y'know, alone?

♓ Pisces
You were outside listening to some music and glancing up at the stars. There were the few kind faces that asked you what was up, but you just stated "I'm vibing," with absolutely no context. They simply took it as you just being yourself and left it alone.

I apologize if there's any mistakes! I hope you all liked the scenarios, as well! Farewell!

A letter concerning #0.

Dear Readers,

It's been a while. How have you been? My updates have been a little slow, but I promise I always think about this book and how to improve it! You don't have to believe me, just know what I've said. To cut to the chase; I'd like to talk about the first chapter of my book: personality comparisons + intro. I've noticed that the majority of you don't seem to like your given countryhumans... so I've decided that I'll redo it! I want all of you to feel comfortable with what you've got, or at least accept it without complaints. I hope the new ones are a little better for you all. It should be up later this week, if not the weekend.
If you're going through hard times right now, keep your chin up. Stay safe! 💕

Sincerely, Author

#9:Happy Holidays💕

Hello, everyone.

A countryhuman have gathered you and some other countryhumans and plan to have a special holiday with you!

Cancer, Pisces, Virgo, and Gemini...
You'll be having a fun holiday planned with Canada, Japan, Antarctica, and Poland!

After hearing that everyone had a holiday break, Japan invited everyone to have a sleepover at her house! She thought to invite You as well as Canada, Antarctica, and Poland because she knew you'd all be far more calm and less annoying than the other countries.
The five of you did a lot of wholesome games, but the night had ended with a 'simple' game of monopoly. Let's just say that Poland no longer trusts you anymore. That's what he said, at least. All mends were made by the end of the game. You even bought Poland a pierogi as an apology.
The next day, instead of parting ways, you all went to a huge outlet and spent who knows how much money. Canada bought you a nice sweater that he saw you eyeing just that day. How sweet! Then, all of you sat down and chatted over some Asian foods at a small Japanese restaurant. It was Japan's treat.

Scorpio, Aquarius, Taurus, and Capricorn...
You'll be having a fun holiday planned with France, Italy, UK, and Spain!

While you were out on a walk with Spain and his dog, you came across France and Italy chatting about who-knows-what. Spain took the lead and decided to jump into the conversation. You somewhat sat awkwardly behind him, not knowing what to say.
While you had been spacing out, though, it turns out that the three had made plans! They shook you out of your daydream and explained it you to briefly. Before you could even say no, they dragged you off to the park where they'd meet UK.

The five of you firstly went to an art museum. France paid for all of you to get in. She had a discount because her art was in the building. Almost all of the pieces of art managed to catch your eye. You saw beautiful paintings from the renaissance era, and modern art that looked so simplistic you were sure even yourself could do them.
After a handful of hours in art heaven, you were all forcefully dragged to a tea shop by the UK. The museum was already a bit much, now you had to try tea? Once you had gotten there, though, you saw the beauty of the place. Everything seemed so overly detailed and designed. It was almost breathtaking.
You all had tea together, except for Spain. He whispered to you that he snuck tequila into his own. You wondered when he'd get drunk.

Aries, Leo, Libra, and Sagittarius...
You'll be having a fun holiday planned with America, South Korea, Australia, and Norway!

Obviously, America hosted it. He rung you up, as well as Aussie, SK, and Norway to have a game night. You gladly accepted the offer. Little did you know, America had a little trick up his sleeve.
All of you gathered at America's home the next day. When he opened the door, he had the most mischievous grin you were sure he could muster. All of you reluctantly stepped into the darkened home. The door quickly shut behind you, and the lights flicked on. America told you that the first game would be Uno, with a twist. The person at the end of the game to have the most cards must either take an article of clothing off, or put five dollars on the table. If you placed the money, the person with the most amount of money on the table must give it to the person with the most wins. You immediately went to bolt the heck out of there, as well as Norway. The door was locked. You turned towards SK and Aussy. They were a part of this plan, too!
In the end, you had won. Norway was the one to have lost the most money, so he annoyingly handed it to you. You decided to be merciful, though, and let him keep it.
(If you're female/uncomfortable with rules...)
You were on the verge of beating America to death just for even mentioning stripping. He rearranged the game rules so that stripping is replaced with having to do something embarrassing in front of everyone. About 5 hours later, you had won with only 15 dollars on the table at 5 wins.

America was in a tutu and tiara,(courtesy to you,) Spain had Christmas lights wrapped around his head and jam dripping from his face, and Norway was on the verge of being broke.
Since you were the winner, you decided to be merciful and let Norway have their money back. Then you forced America to pay up for making you stay there.

I apologize if there's any mistakes.

#10: School☆

Alright, this may be a little cliche, but I wanted to do a chapter where the signs get to hang wit h the countryhumans at school (or perhaps you skipped school, who knows)!
Also I've noticed that we've hit 6k reads! It's absolutely phenomenal how well this book is doing! I'm very happy to have such a popular book about something I like to write about!
Also yes, I have gone missing for possibly 2 weeks. I apologize for my absence, but it's alright if you don't forgive me. I feel as thought my sudden disappearance was inexcusable, haha. Still, I hope all of you are having a good day/night, and wish the best for you all if times get rough!
-Teacup

Note that I've only done the zodiacs Aries, Taurus, Gemini, Cancer, Leo, and Virgo. The rest will be posted soon.

❥---❁

Aries
Beads of sweat fell down your face like a waterfall. You stood up straight in an attempt not to fall into a puddle on the floor as your breathing began to regulate itself. Oh, how much you hated P.E. class. Your annoyingly bossy teacher had ordered you to do two more laps than the rest of the class for absolutely no reason. You rolled your eyes at her pettiness. The P.E. snob had let the other students chat on the bleachers while you ran, as well. You sluggishly began to make your way towards the bleachers to catch your breath, but was stopped by an unfamiliar voice.
"(Y/n), right? Do you need some water? I have an extra bottle." A voice offers. You turn your (e/c) orbs behind you to find Norway. He had just transferred to the school a few days ago. He smiles at you sympathetically and holds out an unopened bottle of water. You give him a blank face and grabbed the water bottle from his hand. His smile widened.
"What she did was so unfair," you growled, popping open the cap of the water and taking a quick swig. Norway nodded in agreement. He folded his arms and walked with you towards an unoccupied spot. You quickly took a seat and felt the tension in your legs release. Pain coursed through your body from your leg joints, causing you to groan.

"Hey, at least you can take a break now!" Norway beams. You mutter a "yeah," and take another swig of the purified water. Out of the corner of your eye you saw your least favorite teacher waltz into the gym. Your face alternated from neutral to irked. Norway noticed your change in expression and scooted away.
"Quiet down, everyone! I have decided that today we'll be having a special event," She said with a smug grin. The entire class collectively groaned and sighed in annoyance, knowing exactly what was going on. Norway displayed a bewildered expression. Your eyes met his ocean blue ones, and then your eyes gravitated towards his body.
"This man is built," you unconsciously whispered to yourself. Norway noticed what he assumed to be admiration, and flexed his bicep. You gave him an annoyed look.
"I see you've noticed!" He said triumphantly with a cheeky grin. You rolled your eyes so hard you were sure you'd see your brain. He chuckled. Just as you were about to give him a slick comeback, a whistle abruptly halted you. You winced and looked at your teacher, who had already set up the dodgeballs in the middle of the gym. She swiftly ordered everyone to stand up and participate or else the grade for the day would be withheld. You stood to your feet and immediately it felt as if you were walking on stilts of jelly. Norway helped you by holding you up straight. He then beckoned you to follow as he rushed off towards the crowd of annoyed students. You unwillingly followed with a miffed expression.
"I will be assigning who the leaders of both teams are." She hisses, as if we were to go against her word if she hadn't said it so venomously. You crossed your arms and tapped a finger on your forearm.
"Norway and (Y/N), you're the leaders." She stated surprisingly calmly. A few people had turned towards you and Norway. You hadn't noticed that he was standing next to you. With swift movements you made your way towards the teacher with Norway in tow.
"I'm going to break you down, little man." You whisper jokingly.

Norway barely subdues his burst of laughter with a chuckle. He then smirks at you.
"Little? Look who's talking." He muttered. You felt your blood begin to burn under your (s/c) skin. You would definitely take him down, no matter what.
You decided to lead a balanced team, picking the people you knew as either "athletic" or "a nerdy idiot" according to the gym teacher. Afterwards your group and Norway's lined up across the opposite sides of the gym. Norway was making heavy eye contact with you, obviously intending to knock you out of the game before the other way around happens. The teacher blew her whistle and everyone flew towards the center. People were already getting knocked out of the game, mostly the less athletic students. His team was going down far faster than your own though, so you had made the right decision.
You had caught the Norwegian flag in the corner of your eye. You swiftly turned towards the taller male. He yeeted a dodgeball right beside you. If flew clear past your head, causing your hair to slightly fly up from the immediate gust of wind. With the dodgeball in hand, you maneuvered around your area, looking for the right location to get that smug bastard off of the scene. As soon as you had found it, the ball went flying from your hand. You had thrown it with such velocity that you weren't sure if he'd be conscious after it or not.
Spoilers: he wasn't.
The vicinity between the two of you was closer, since the both of you were extremely close to the middle ground. When the ball hit his face, he fell to the floor. You didn't know whether to feel triumphant or to feel sympathy for the poor guy. Before you could bend down and check on him though, you realized you had been standing still for too long. It was too late though, a fiery red ball had already made contact with the side of your head.
Think I went a little overboard for you, Aries...

Taurus
The sunlight of a new day shimmered through your window and lay across your face. Slowly you began to stir from a peaceful sleep, mind still lost in dreamland as your (e/c) eyes cracked open. You grimaced at the light that burned your eyes, quickly sitting up and taking in your surrounds. You rubbed your eyes and reached a hand behind you to search for your phone. As your (s/c) hand grappled onto the phone, you felt it vibrate. Quickly you brought the screen into your vision and hummed in confusion. Japan was calling you. You sluggishly accepted the call and fell back onto your bed. You then brought the phone to your ear, and hummed a "Hello?" Immediately you were met with nagging. On instinct you pulled the phone away from your ear, still somewhat stuck in a haze. As the yelling began to die down, you reeled the phone back toward you. "Baka! Did you forget about school completely, (Y/N)?!" You could finally make out. Your eyes widened and your heartbeat sped. Quickly you pulled the covers from across your body and jumped out of the bed. Ignoring the dizziness that had erupted, you pushed forward and had begun to dig through your drawers to find clothes. You put your phone on speaker and dropped it onto the dresser.

"We have a huge assessment today! Don't you remember?!" Japan continued. You couldn't respond over your rapidness. Japan continued to give you details about the huge test. You felt yourself panic even more as you realized that the teacher that was holding the test was your first class. Suddenly you heard a burst of laughter. You stopped dressing and turned towards the phone, wondering why Japan was now giggling quietly to herself.
"I was kidding, (Y/N)! It's a Sunday, too!" Japan laughed into the phone. You let out a heavy groan and slid off your clothes, putting your comfy ones back on. You should've known, because you always wake up to your 7 am alarms.
"Are you going to apologize to me, then? Making me feel nervous and all!" You hiss, throwing the discarded clothes to the side and walking over to your bed. You fell onto your comfy bed and waited for a bit.
"Hai, Hai, ごめんなさい, (Y/N)!" she hummed. You let out a sigh of relief and cuddled back into bed.

Gemini
You caressed your (s/c) hand over the sleeping dog's head once more. Your face showed sympathy as you thought about how much intensity and discomfort the poor pup was going through, Ukraine let out a soft sigh and frowned.
Ukraine had called you to him house to help with his puppy, Tishka. You agreed and came straight towards his home instead of heading to school. Ukraine's father had shrugged it off and had left for work knowing how much Ukraine cared for the dog. Here the two of you were, soothing the ailing pooch.

"I'm so nervous, I hope her sickness isn't fatal..." Ukraine says softly. You hummed in response and shut your eyes in an attempt to think of something to cheer the concerned flower boy up. You had then realized you never caught the breed of the dog, and landed your (e/c) optics on Ukraine's visage.
"What breed is she, anyways?" You inquired. Ukraine was caught in his sadness by his thoughts. He cradled his chin with his index and thumb, thinking for a bit.
"Right! She's a Black Russian Terrier." Ukraine responds. The flower boy then whips out his phone, and began tapping away. You tilt your head in confusion before turning your attention to the dog. She moved her head onto your lap, and was fast asleep. This made you smile, but soon it faded as you realized you couldn't move. Ukraine noticed and giggled at your consternation. You stifled a laugh yourself.
"What are you searching up?" You whisper. Ukraine turns his phone's screen towards you. It was a common sickness in dogs that would go away eventually with time, so evidently the dog was okay. You let out a sigh of relief, but then thought for a moment. Ukraine noticed and waited for you to speak while he placed his phone away.
"How do you know that Tishka has that sickness?" You asked. Ukraine shrugs, unsure of how to answer the question. You gave him a slightly concerned look, hoping he hadn't gone to one of those falsified websites. Then, a grumble erupted in the room. You looked down to find the dog was awake, and rapidly wagging her tail. Tishka raised her head from the place in your lap and stood up strong and tall. The two of you stood there in shock by the swift recovery. Ukraine pushes those thoughts aside though, and had begun to excite and praise the big dog. You did as Ukraine had, and begun to pamper the pup. Little did you know, the dog had been acting the entire time so as Ukraine could stay home. Having you there was a huge bonus!

Cancer
"Boop!" Was all the warning you got before a dot of red paint was blotched onto the tip of your nose. A giggle ignited behind France's smile as you lead your eyes down towards the blob of paint. You rolled your eyes playfully and smiled, turning your attention back to the canvas.

France had chosen you to help with the painting that would be due by the end of class. You were excited to work with such an aspiring artist, as she was excited to work with another friendly one! The teacher was excited to observe the outcome of the two of you, finding the both of you as two artistic souls.
France had done the majority of the painting, but that didn't stop you from adding in small details or giving France advice. At some point the two of you had gotten stuck, and decided to sneakily search up color theories on your phones.
By now the painting was coming to a finish, the both of you satisfied with your masterpiece.
"It looks beautiful, no?" France hummed. She had begun to add a few extra details to the painting while you contemplate it. France finally pulled her paintbrush away from the canvas and pulled her attention away from the small details.
"It looks great... but..." you mumbled, unsure of what had been missing. France seemed to agree, crossing her arms and tapping her shoe onto the tiled flooring. The two of you sat there, identifying everything and absorbing the vibrancy before it seemed to have struck the both of you at once.
"(F/C)!" The both of you said simultaneously. A few others had glanced towards you before turning back to their own pieces. The both of you giggled at your silliness and got back to business inserting your favorite color into the unfinished artwork. France noticed your sudden burst of creativity, and stepped back to let you do the finishing touches. Once it was all done you stepped back and took in everything.
"Finally! Do we turn it in now, or...?" You ask. France shakes her head and pulls herself up to sit on the free desk. You question her thought process and raised a brow in confusion. She laughs at your puppy-like bewilderment.
"We must be fashionably late, mon cher! It is then that we will both be seen as fabulous and meticulous." France whispered to you. You nodded and sat down, chatting about random things before the majority of people had turned in their art pieces. You turned towards France, and she winked at you as a signal. You nodded and carefully bought the canvas into your grip, making your way towards the teacher. He asked you politely to place it on the easel, and so you did. When his eyes laid on the canvas, they widened. You were a bit worried that you had done wrong. Your face fell just a bit, as did France's when she realized your remorse.

"This is monstrously opulent! As expected from the two of you!" He praised. You almost fell into a pile of relief, the both of you sighing heavily. The teacher brought the painting into his arms, and then to a little pedestal. There he placed it and smiled at the both of you. The two of you were then dismissed to do whatever inside of the class, as your work had been done.

Leo
A blob of who-knows-what kind of food passed your face like a launched missile. You ducked down quickly, wiping whatever goop that landed in your hair away as quickly as possible. You looked up to see more food flying from place to place around the cafeteria like bats. Laughter filled the room as if it were a children's play room. You felt like your were going to throw up.
Before you could even get a bite out of your homemade meal, someone screeched "food fight," and everything had gone to chaos. You desperately wanted to escape and eat outside. You regret not going with Canada to the nearby park for lunch. You had begun to crawl away from the situation, but realized that through all the disarray you couldn't find the exit.
It was then you're supposed savior had come to rescue you. America leaped over a table and sat next to you with a grin on his face. You see through the glint of his sunglasses that he was the one that had started this mess; but for whatever reason, had you inquired? Suddenly America slung his arm around your shoulder and pulled you towards him. You gasped and then gritted your teeth.
"What do you want, America?" You hissed, attempting to pull away from him. For a second you could see his smile falter, but you thought yourself imagining things. Still, he beamed and crosses his arms, somehow flexing his muscles in the process. You deadpanned.
"I've come to rescue royalty in distress of course," America said triumphantly. For a minute you wanted to tell him "chivalry died when you were born," but you stopped yourself for his sake. He held out his hand to you with an angelic smile. For a second you saw him as a genuinely nice guy; but only for a second.
You placed your hand in his, and you swore you saw his cheeks flush. He hid it regardless as he turned around, guiding you sneakily outside of the cafeteria. Once the two of you were out he shut the doors. You let out a sigh of relief and slid against the wall, somewhat disappointed that you couldn't eat your own lunch. America noticed your disarray and quickly thought of something. "Do you... Uh, do you want to go to McDonalds?" He asked awkwardly. His hand flew behind him and scratched his neck, as if he were too nervous to ask. You hummed and stood up.

"As long as you're paying." You said with a small smile.
"Deal!"

Virgo
"Careful, careful!" You nag. Germany straightens his back and toughens the grip he has on the giant fake terraria. Your breathing hitched as you almost missed a step descending the stairs in front of Germany's house. Perhaps it was a good idea to wake up earlier than usual. The two of you were moving as slow and molasses trying to get your environmental science project to school. You just a bit angry about how Germany had completely taken control of the situation and went absolutely overboard with the project, but it'd give you a good name with the teachers. You would've settled for at least a C+, but Germany only accepts A's. You still couldn't understand the uptight know-it-all country. During the strained silence of walking the project to school, you attempted to make small talk. You were steadily being shot down by Germany's vague wording. You were even on the verge of bringing up his father, but you wanted to get him to talk—not make him tense. Plus, he could drop the project out of anxiety. Just the thought of it falling to the ground in a shameful heap made you shiver. It took both of you hours to bring it to Germany's standards.
Sooner or later the two of you had found yourselves in the Teacher's classroom. When the teacher first met eyes with the two of you struggling, her eyes widened. She was simultaneously confused, and concerned. Quickly she stood from her spot as the both of you sat down the project on a desk. Surprisingly the two of you had gotten there before classes had begun. The heeled teacher took quick steps towards the two of you. Her mouth agape, she was at a loss for words.
"I expect a 100 for this." Germany sighed, crossing his arms. You nodded in agreement and fell into a chair, feeling your muscles

pulse form
The soreness of walking so slow.
"This is magnificent, but... you do know that this was meant to be a slideshow, right...?" The teacher mumbled. She crosses her arms and gives you both a perturbed look. Slowly you rose from your seat. Blood began to boil underneath your (s/c) skin. Before you could explode though, Germany did.
"If I do not find a 100 for this monstrosity on my progress report, I will call my father. We both don't want that, now do we?" He said lowly, almost hissing. The teacher halted and shook her head. She walked to her desk and opened her laptop. Germany slouched in a seat, and you watched him melt from the tension in his body. You had never realized how terrifying Germany's father was to the staff. Even so, you'd never met him.

❥---❁
Thank you for reading! Libra, Scorpio, Sagittarius, Capricorn, Aquarius, Pisces, you're up next!

Smol Filler...

Hey! I'm alive! How are you?
I wanted to take a break from everything, so um... yeah, haha!

Aries
Russia looks up and down at your frame, then raises a brow. "What is this small... gremlin?"

Taurus
Romania looks interested in you. "You sure do look sweet! I bet your blood is too... what? I didn't say anything!"

Gemini
Poland seems a bit awkward around you. "Listen, I know you can get emotional sometimes, but please don't snap at me, okay?"

Cancer
Australia appears to be sympathetic towards you. "I know you're kinda afraid of (insert spooky bug), so I brought you a baby kangaroo! Not so scary, right?"

Leo
Netherlands is spacing out too much to even pay attention to you... "What if... we're the aliens... and the dinosaurs were killed... by our spaceship...?"

Virgo
Vietnam doesn't seem interested with you at all. "Step back! Demon spawn! STEP BACK!"

Libra
Ukraine is comfortable around you. "Hey, I made you a flower crown! Here!" Ukraine proceeds to place flower crown on your head. "Adorable!"

Scorpio
Finland doesn't like you at all... You aren't sure if he even wants to talk to you.

Estonia on the other hand, loves you! "We should go somewhere nice together! I'd love to see you in traditional clothes, (Y/N)!"

Sagittarius
South Korea appears to be... just a bit obsessed with you. "(Y/N)! I got this new game that I wanted us to play together! What do you mean you have other plans?! Pleeassee??"

Capricorn
Italy doesn't appreciate your distaste for his cooking. "What do you mean you don't like it? I'll have you know I come from a long line of chefs, and Abbiamo vinto molti premi per le nostre incredibili abilità culinarie! Ti mostrerò la vera bellezza della cucina, che ti piaccia o n—"
[Google translate was used!]

Aquarius
Canada is a bit afraid of you. "Uh, um... uh... would you... like some pancakes...? You don't have to eat it if you don't want them. You do? That's great! Hold on, I'll get my maple syrup!"

Pisces
France thinks you're adorable! "Such a little Bébé! Would you like me to bring you somewhere nice? I could bake you some pastries!"

Another Letter.

[image]

My dearest readers,

I don't want to waste much of your time, so a few sentences will suffice.
I thank you all for your likes and kind comments. They fill me with joy to know that people take time out of their lives to read my slow updating book. I had originally had a plan for what to do for 10,000 reads, but I think you all should decide.
What should I do for a 10k special?
It's alright if you can't come up with anything. I have a few ideas that come to mind. Still, your perspective and opinions do matter to me. I'd love to hear them!
Always make sure to take your own feelings into consideration when things get complicated. You matter just as much as everyone around you. I wish you luck for any upcoming events, and hope you'll all do great on any challenges that you must face on your journey through life 💕.
Have a swell day/night!

Sincerely, Teacup

P.S.) art by me.